

About Douglas Falkner, MD, MHom

A trained Emergency Physician and Master Homeopath, Dr. Falkner brings an extensive medical background to his understanding of health and disease. As a gifted homeopathic physician, teacher, and healer, Dr. Falkner combines his conventional medical knowledge with Hahnemann's classical teachings in his work with patients and students alike. With over 25 years of applied clinical experience in homeopathy, Dr. Falkner clearly understands and effectively conveys which tools are the most fundamental and practical for attaining a high level of proficiency and competence in homeopathy. Dr. Falkner's teaching style is dynamic and interactive, spiced with relevant stories, humor and fun. Living with his family in Blue Hill, Maine, Dr. Falkner maintains both a world-wide patient base via phone consultations and continues to expand his teaching activities.

Here is one student's comment about this course :

"I've realized that I have learned more from you in under a year's time than in all the years of previous training I've received. I am confident that as a graduate of your school I will be able to use homeopathy to truly benefit others. My feeling is that your work as a teacher of homeopathy is not only "worthwhile", it is a vital contribution to the field as a whole, and to the healing of our world."

The Falkner School For Homeopathy Presents:

The Objective Observer Course

Learn clear, impartial observation and much more easily find the best remedy every time

A Three Year Training Program Starting in April 2017

COURSE HIGHLIGHTS

Learn to apply Homeopathy through objective observation

Are you ready to advance your success rate? Are you longing to get good consistent results that will truly benefit your clients or patients and make your experience as a homeopath deeply satisfying and rewarding? Dr. Falkner teaches the essential skills to access the spectacular results we all intuitively know are possible and achieve them, with persistence and practice, virtually all the time.

This three year course will provide the foundation and tools necessary to attain these goals. Along with emphasis on homeopathic fundamentals, Dr. Falkner will teach his unique approach, which shows students how to access the objective observer within. Unprejudiced observation or clear perception is the keystone of homeopathic medicine. Objective observation is what allows the practitioner to clearly understand each case, and to identify the central symptoms that form the basis of selecting the simillimum. In this way deep healing and wholeness can both arise.

Objective observation means that, instead of matching remedies to clients through external systems and theories, you are taught to refine your own observational and intuitive abilities, trust them, and apply them naturally according to your own individual way of working and being. Using the faculty of objective observation, you will learn to find the best remedies by relying on your understanding and knowing and skillful use of case taking, repertory, and materia medica. You will learn how to achieve ever increasing clarity, while always staying fully grounded in the practical and time-tested Hahnemannian principles.

By learning to awaken and develop your own “objective observer,” you will not only produce truly consistent and positive results with homeopathy, you will also grow as a person, thereby transforming your everyday life for the better. Using a dynamic and interactive teaching style, classical texts, live cases, and engaging discussions, this class provides an unmatched, comprehensive experience, providing all the tools you need to propel you toward unimagined success.

Develop a reliable, practical, clinically-proven approach to Homeopathy

This course will be a wonderful adventure. The vast universe of homeopathic philosophy, materia medica, and repertory will become readily accessible during our studies. All the challenges of successful case observation, case analysis, and case management will be linked to reliable, easily comprehensible principles. By the end of the course, students will have a working understanding of how to combine practical homeopathic knowledge and tools with one’s natural healing gifts, making the work truly one’s own. In this way one feels satisfied and grounded in practice, and the best remedies are most often easily identified.

Identifying, exploring, and bringing into balance our own biases or prejudices is integral to this training. This type of personal inner work on oneself hones our perceptive capacities, opens our hearts, and clears the way toward Hahnemann’s highest ideal for the “true practitioner of the Healing Arts”: namely, pure, balanced, objective, loving observation.

Live Clinical Cases and Follow Ups

Throughout all three years of this course, there will be opportunities to participate in live case-observation and follow-ups. Through immersion in the clinical setting—where the rubber meets the road— the invaluable and irreplaceable opportunity to understand how theory actually gets applied in practice builds confidence and fluency in a way that nothing else can. In addition, there is always more than ample time to address your own personal questions and challenges in both your studies and your work with clients.

Who can attend?

This course is open to all students of homeopathy at any level. Though the first year is most suited to those who wish to receive a solid foundation in homeopathic fundamentals, it is also extremely valuable for anyone who has already done some self-study or who has taken a few short seminars or conferences, but would also like to learn to advance their skills in observation and clear perception.

Registration

In the first year there will be bi-monthly web/teleconferencing sessions that range from 4-5 hours in length. There will be core teaching, interactive discussions, and ample time for everyone’s questions. All sessions are recorded so that you may review what you learned or catch up on material that you may have missed. A general list of required books or other materials will be provided to registered students.
